Program Overview:

RICS (HK) Environmental Professional Group Committee is organizing a CPD seminar on the topic of "Indoor Air Quality" on 16 September. The objective of the seminar is to provide attendees with an understanding on the general concept of indoor air quality as well as latest updates associated with the topic.

For those professional surveyors who are involved in environmental work or property management work will certainly be interested to know the required standard of indoor air quality (IAQ), together with its associated updates since its launch a few years ago. This CPD seminar will impart the audience with a brief introduction on the concept of voluntary compliance of IAQ as devised by Environmental Protection Department (EPD) and Electrical and Mechanical Services Department (EMSD) a few years ago. Through this CPD, audience will certainly grasp the gist of the IAQ control and the means to measure and achieve such standard.

Professor Pong will deliver a very brief introduction which will be followed by Dr Cheung's presentation to disseminate the substance of the requirements under the voluntary certification of IAQ.
